PORK STIR FRY

INGREDIENTS

Cooking oil spray

500g lean pork, fat removed, thinly sliced

3 clove garlic, thinly sliced

3cm piece ginger, peeled, finely grated

1 long red chilli, thinly sliced

8 oyster mushrooms, thinly sliced

3 bok choy, quartered

300g snow peas, trimmed

3 cups steamed basmati rice, to serve

2 shallots, thinly sliced on an angle

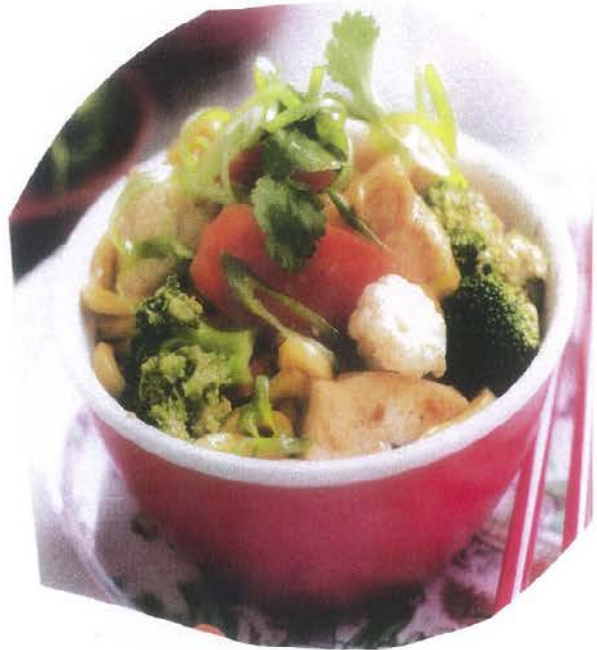

Never-fail stir-fry sauce:

2 teaspoons honey

2 teaspoons reduced-salt soy sauce

2 tablespoons Chinese cooking wine

1 tablespoon oyster sauce

METHOD

Combine sauce ingredients in a small bowl or jug.

Spray wok with oil and place over medium heat, then add pork. Stir-fry for a few minutes or until just cooked. Remove from wok and set aside.

Spray wok again lightly with oil, then add garlic, ginger and chilli. Stir for about 30 seconds until fragrant, then add mushrooms. Stir until mushrooms soften, then add bok choy and snow peas.

Return pork to wok and add sauce. Remove from heat once snow peas and bok choy are bright green and tender-crisp, and pork is heated through.

Serve stir-fry on rice and garnish with shallots.

WEDDIN SHIRE COUNCIL NEWS 21/11/2012

Former Mayor Maurice Simpson remains in (Royal) Canberra Hospital and is expected to undergo an operation by the time of printing. Hopefully all will go well.

No date has been set for the postponed Councillor Appreciation Dinner, which may now have to be left until early next year. The function will be extensively advertised once the new arrangements are confirmed.

Council has been offered the annual Youth Week grant for 2013, which in recent years has been conducted in conjunction with The Henry Lawson High School. The grant has been accepted and a special promotion will be organised by the school in early April next year.

The Council's Noxious Weeds Committee has decided to add another community member and is inviting a representative of NSW Farmers to join.

Noxious weeds are always a problem and there is never enough money to do all that has to be done. The government grants these days are usually targeted at specific weeds which means that councils have to pick up the tab for the rest.

Most farmers these days recognise the benefits of eliminating the noxious weeds and plan their spraying for optimum effect as part of an overall weeds programme. Council tries to support this work along the roadsides as best it can.

At its last meeting the Noxious Weeds Committee resolved to compile a list of email addresses for farmers interested in being sent weeds information and alerts. Any farmer interested in being placed on the list for this information is requested to send an email of request to Council at mail@weddin.nsw.gov.au

Weddin Council (with 6 others) is a member of the Lachlan Valley Noxious Weeds Advisory Committee, with Cr Graeme Halls being the local delegate.

This committee has agreed to a proposal by John Holland (rail contractor) to construct an educational trailer which can be used to travel the region and help with weed identification and treatment. Council may be required to contribute up to $3000 towards this trailer.

Next week is Asbestos Awareness Week, a promotional campaign coordinated by the Asbestos Coordination Authorities which includes several State Government departments. Also involved are the Asbestos Diseases Research Institute and the Asbestos Education Committee.

Some of the important messages are:

- Homes built or renovated prior to 1985 are most likely to contain asbestos,
- A high proportion of DIY home renovators may have cut AC fibro sheeting,
- Asbestos if undisturbed does not pose a health risk.

Anyone with a concern about asbestos may access the website at www.asbestosawareness.com.au for information, or Council's Environmental Services department may be able to assist.

There will be a quarterly CENTROC meeting in Grenfell this Thursday, which will be attended by the Mayor and General Manager.

This is a time when other councils look around and make comparisons with their own towns. Our most recent improvements, the Community Hub and the new works depot, never fail to impress.

A final reminder that the November Council Meeting will also be held this Thursday, making it a busy day for some.

As always, members of the public are welcome to attend.
